Janet Mock is an internationally known trans woman of color and author of the New York Times bestselling book, Redefining Realness: My Path to Womanhood, Identity, Love & So Much More (Atria Books/Simon & Schuster). She first told her story of growing up as a trans girl in 2011 in Marie Claire – a magazine to which she has contributed articles and for which she now works as a Contributing Editor. Besides being a writer, Janet is also a cultural commentator and dedicated advocate for trans women’s rights in addition to advocating for girls and women in general. To this end, in 2012, she launched #GirlsLikeUs, a social movement that celebrates the diversity of womanhood and empowers all women, particularly trans women. In 2013, Janet joined the Board of Directors at the Arcus Foundation, a leading global organization advancing social justice and conservation issues. In 2014, Janet was interviewed on CNN’s Piers Morgan Live, The Colbert Report, and Melissa Harris-Perry, and has hosted segments for HuffPost Live and Pivot’s TakePart Live. Besides her many honors and awards, Janet Mock was also featured in the HBO Documentary The Out List as well as having appeared in the Washington Post, New York Times, NPR, Rookie, Salon, Slate, Feministing, Colorlines, and elsewhere.
