HUMBOLDT BAY ISLANDS "FORGOTTEN LAND"

Could be Developed Into Valuable Area

BY CHIEF SCHWARTZKOFF
TRAVEL BY DEE DUKE

In the middle of Humboldt Bay, between Eureka and Samoa, stand two of the most potentially valuable pieces of land on the West Coast in the area... Gunther and Woodley Islands. Much has been written about their histories, for these islands occupy an interesting position in the past. But they occupy a strategic place in the future.

Fancy what a few hundred feet of water can do. You can stand at the foot of a street and find that within a half mile you can money, and you can cross a narrow stream by a bridge.

TRIP TO ISLANDS

Through the kindness of L.L. Fitch, a native of Eureka, who, with his brothers, Elmer and Art, owns the Gunther Island boat service, a party of men were able to visit the Gunther Island. After a short visit at the house, we returned to our vehicles and started for Woodley Island, which is not far away.

First landing was made at Tom Kennedy's dock on Gunther Island. Ten tons of merchandise, furniture, clothing, and provisions were unloaded from a boat and prepared for the journey. Two hundred dollars was paid for the use of the dock and a small house near the dock. The journey was made in a small, stonemason boat, and the trip was enjoyed.

The gunther, from which and 24-foot cutters. A view of Woodley Island from the main house. The dock and house were built at the cost of about $400, and the building was completed in about six months.

As the gunther, from which and 24-foot cutters. A view of Woodley Island from the main house. The dock and house were built at the cost of about $400, and the building was completed in about six months.

Water on Gunther Island

Water on Gunther Island was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed. The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed. The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed. The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed. The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed.

The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed. The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed. The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed. The water was very low, and the boat was not able to proceed.

Two LADIES ON ISLANDS

Meet Mr. and Mrs. Laramie

Mr. and Mrs. Laramie are the owners of this island. They have been living on the island for several years, and they are very happy there. They have a small house on the island, and they are planning to build a larger one.

Laramie's house is a double-decker, and Mrs. Laramie has a half-decked house. The house is situated on a small hill, and it is surrounded by water. The house is very comfortable, and the views from it are beautiful.

The visitors are quite impressed with the prosperous and well-built premises at Laramie's, and they are quite happy to be on the island. They have a good time, and they are planning to return.

A LOOK AT WOODLEY

Across the channel to Woodley Island, you can see the island and see the houses and water. You can see the water, and you can see the houses.

Mr. Kennedy's bachelor quarters on Gunther Island are neat as pin.

Tom Kennedy's bachelor quarters on Gunther Island are neat as pin.

Harper duck shooting lodges on Woodley Island are attractive.

Duck hunters have hull-dazed out decayed pond on Woodley Island.

Air view of Eureka waterfront opposite islands showing islands' strategic possibilities as regards city.