Myers Flat--Business And Living Are Good

COMMUNITY ENTERING ERA OF STABILITY AND WELLBEING

Myers Flat—more familiarly known to Humboldtians as Eureka, on Highway 101, beside the farm which the Redwood Empire is famed. The river makes a long bend around it, with redwoods surrounding it, and goes through it.

Myers Flat is on the south fork of Redwood Creek, and is about 53 miles south of Eureka. It is one of those sleepy, yet interesting, little towns that are often overlooked by travelers.

In Myers Flat, you can find a variety of businesses, from grocery stores to restaurants. The town is also home to a community center where local events are held.

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Myers FLAT

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Myers FLAT

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

The community center is a hub of activity, with events such as concerts and festivals held throughout the year.

The community is also known for its strong sense of community, with local groups working together to improve the town and its residents.

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Myers FLAT

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Community members work together to maintain the town's parks and trails, and to keep the community clean.

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Myers FLAT

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

The community center is a hub of activity, with events such as concerts and festivals held throughout the year.

The community is also known for its strong sense of community, with local groups working together to improve the town and its residents.

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Myers FLAT

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Community members work together to maintain the town's parks and trails, and to keep the community clean.

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

Myers FLAT

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.

The community center is a hub of activity, with events such as concerts and festivals held throughout the year.

The community is also known for its strong sense of community, with local groups working together to improve the town and its residents.

The river is at its boldest alongside Camp Myers.