Trinidad--Town of History and Views

Haven-Cove Like Old-World Scene

By CHEY SHERCKOWE

Twenty-four miles north of Eureka, where Highway 101 skirts the H. C. M. W. I. D. I. coast, stands the historic and picturesque town of Trinidad. The visitor who takes time to look about will be impressed by its settings. To the seaward hills of Trinidad Head, on the landward side rise the forests and hills, and at its feet the Pacific ocean rushes among a roadhouse shore.

And as a potential center of future development, few places in Humboldt would seem to offer more.

UNEXCELLED VIEW

Let us run up the hill to Trinidad Point. This is a delightful spot, with an unobstructed view of the entire coast, with its rugged headlands and beautiful coves. The Point itself is a rocky promontory, with cliffs and ledges, and a beautiful view of the ocean. The Point is a popular place for fishing and boating, and is a favorite spot for picnicking.

The lighthouse. The oil-burning lighthouse was completed in 1877, erected by the United States Government. It is a handsome structure, with a fine view of the ocean and the surrounding country. The lighthouse is a favorite place for visitors, and is a popular spot for photography.

A LOOK AT TOWN

You leave Trinidad Head, returning to the village. The buildings are of wood, with a few brick and stone structures. The main street is called Main Street, and is a wide, open, and inviting place. The buildings are of the typical California style, with white walls and red roofs. The main street is lined with shops, hotels, and restaurants.

Where Highway 101 Passes through Trinidad

One of several attractive nearby restaurants

Trinidad is a charming town, with a delightful setting on the Pacific coast. The town is a popular place for tourists, and is a favorite spot for fishing and boating. The town is well worth a visit, and is a place to be remembered.